Food & Beverage Manufacturers

Why ComplianceQuest for Food and Beverage Manufacturers?

Train using a recipe for the new “normal” in health and safety

Reduce incidents and near-misses successfully with training for high noise levels, dangerous equipment, slippery floors, musculoskeletal disorders, hazardous chemicals, and live animals in specific segments using ComplianceQuest EHS Incident Management

Move successfully to multiple shift scheduling and grouping of employees for containment and critical processes through effective communication of new processes and collaborative feedback using Employee portals and reporting in ComplianceQuest EHS Training.

Manage portions of Risks and Reward in Food and Beverage Processing

New food and beverage products and markets, new automation, new processes, unskilled work force and shortages, brand protection, and now ...Covid. Benefit by having a safe and healthy workforce and that workers involved in food and beverage processing feel safe handling product using ComplianceQuest EHS Risk Management.

Mitigate workplace processes in manufacturing, material handling, and close contact with coworkers using SOP documentation and analytics using ComplianceQuest EHS Document Management and Advanced Analytics.

Blend the right ingredients for employee devices and automation

Improve Food and Beverage employee exposure to chemicals and pathogens, injuries from machines and tools, and repetitive injuries to ensure both safety and profits with better connectivity and earlier detection.

ComplianceQuest interoperability and integration connects worker technologies with EHS, ERP, Asset Management, and WMS automation for early hazard recognition to drive improvements in safety culture regarding workplace injuries.

We are an agriculture business with various types of operations, with many locations spread across several states. We were seeking a safety platform that could track a wide variety of incident types and allow our team to easily and quickly enter the information. Employees have found it very easy to enter incident details. The screens are self-explanatory, so limited training was necessary for incident reporting. The dashboards and reports are customizable to display the incident data in many fashions.
